

Renovation Update

Despite occasional construction setbacks, Phase 1 of our renovation is progressing nicely. As many of our local members may be aware, recent construction accidents in New York City have made the process of receiving building permits much more difficult. We garnered our last building permit mid-September, and, now, are well on our way to completing our beautiful new third, fourth, and fifth floors.

All parties have been intensely focused on resolving any additional construction issues which have arisen to make up as much time as possible. For about two months, the Project Manager has led daily morning site meetings with the architects, engineers, and contractors, answering questions and ensuring that the original design intent and quality are met. Every effort has been made to advance the job despite the setbacks. We now anticipate opening the third and fourth floors in early November.

We ask for your patience as we work to overcome these delays and complete this exciting project.
